5

10

10/044,483

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides an electromagnetic probe, comprising at least one assembly comprising in combination:

- a coaxial type connection;
- · a ground plane connected to the outer sheath of the coaxial connection;
- · a reflector cone placed facing the ground plane and shaped to define impedance that is at least substantially constant along its profile; and
- $\cdot$  a dielectric medium interposed at least in part between the reflector cone and the ground plane.